

Revenue Cycle Transformation FAQs

We hope these FAQs will answer questions you may have during the transformation.

Reasoning Behind the Transformation

1. Why is this transformation happening?

In early 2025, Revenue Cycle leadership took a close look at how we work — our structure, our processes and how well we're integrated across the system. The goal was to identify opportunities to strengthen our performance and align with industry best practices.

What we learned pointed to some clear next steps, starting with updating our organizational structure under Johns Hopkins Health System (JHHS). This redesign will help us work more efficiently by streamlining workflows, improving visibility into our operations, and making it easier to make informed decisions quickly.

At the same time, moving to an enterprise-level structure under JHHS means we'll have better coordination across teams, more consistent standards, shared resources and aligned goals systemwide. These changes directly support Johns Hopkins' mission to improve the health of our community and advance medical knowledge — work that depends on a strong revenue cycle foundation. When we operate more effectively behind the scenes, our clinical teams have what they need to focus on what matters most: delivering exceptional patient care. Ultimately, these changes position us to better support Johns Hopkins Medicine through improved performance, clearer reporting and smarter use of our resources.

2. When is this transformation happening?

The redesigned operating model is scheduled for implementation between June 1 and Aug. 23, 2026.

3. Which entities are included in this transformation?

All clinical revenue creation — both hospital billing and professional billing — at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, Johns Hopkins Health System and Johns Hopkins Community Physicians is included.

4. What's changing — and what's staying the same?

Here's what's changing:

- Your employer. You'll officially move from the school of medicine (SOM) to Johns Hopkins Health System (JHHS). Benefits information can be found below.
- Leadership structure. We're bringing all of Revenue Cycle under one leader to improve coordination. If you previously worked under SOM, you'll have a designated liaison who will be your main point of contact.
- How we work. We're adjusting some processes to improve efficiency and our collections.

Here's what's NOT changing:

- Your mission. You'll continue supporting our patients and keeping revenue operations running smoothly.
- Our commitment to you. We are dedicated to your professional growth and personal well-being.
- Your daily work. The essential work you do every day remains just as important as it has always been.

Employment Impact and Transition

1. Who will be affected by this transformation?

All roles within the SOM revenue cycle organization will be affected by this change.

2. What happens now that my current position is being eliminated?

With the transition from SOM to JHHS, your current SOM position is being eliminated. Depending on your role, you could be invited to competitively apply to future state roles with JHHS ("competitive recruitment") or be mapped to a role from SOM to JHHS via an administrative transfer ("administrative transfer"). Learn more in the next section: Application Process and Future Roles.

3. What happens if I do not secure another position within the system?

- For administrative transfers: If you are offered a mapped role and choose to decline it, you will not be eligible for severance. Your employment will end on the date specified in your notification.
- For competitive recruitments: If you do not apply for or are not selected as a result of a competitive recruitment, and you are unable to secure another role within the Johns Hopkins enterprise before your current position ends, HR will guide you through next steps, which will include severance, outplacement services and other resources to assist with your career transition.

4. Will I receive a severance package?

- For administrative transfers: If you are offered a mapped role and choose to decline it, you will not be eligible for a severance package.
- For competitive recruitments: If you do not apply for, or are not selected, as a result of a competitive recruitment, you will be eligible for severance. If applicable, SOM HR will provide specific information regarding severance packages, including any continuation of pay and benefits.

5. If I am retirement-eligible, can I retire from the university and then apply for one of the new RCM positions?

During the transition, an employee cannot do both. The employee would either move over to a new role through a competitive recruitment or administrative transfer or could elect to retire (if eligible). Nothing would prevent an employee from applying for a future opening.

6. If I am retirement-eligible and choose to retire, can I receive a severance package without applying for a new role?

- For those under the competitive recruitment category, if you don't apply and/or are not selected, you would receive a severance. Likewise, if you elect to retire, you will receive a severance package.
- For administrative transfers: If you are offered a mapped role and choose to decline it, you will not be eligible for a severance package, even though you can choose to retire.

7. What outplacement services are offered?

If you receive a severance package, you'll have access to an outplacement firm to support you through this transition and help with your job search. This resource is designed to give you practical support as you navigate your next steps.

Please note: If you're offered an administrative transfer and choose to decline it, you will not be eligible for outplacement services.

8. Would I be eligible for rehire at Johns Hopkins in the future?

Yes. If you leave in good standing, you are eligible for rehire and welcome to apply for future openings across Johns Hopkins.

Application Process and Future Roles

1. How does the transition to the JHHS employment model work?

The process depends on your current role and how it transitions to the new Revenue Cycle organization:

If your role maps directly to a new position via an administrative transfer:

Your role will be mapped to a role at JHHS. You'll receive a personalized email with a link to provide your information for your new position. No interview is required — this link simply allows us to gather the details needed to complete your transfer to JHHS. Once you submit your information, we'll schedule a brief placement meeting to answer questions and confirm details. You'll then receive an official offer letter to review and accept.

If your role requires a competitive recruitment:

Leadership and certain specialized positions (directors, assistant directors, managers, supervisors, and billing and follow-up roles) will go through a structured, competitive interview process. You'll apply through SuccessFactors and participate in interviews where we'll assess your experience, skills and fit for the role.

If you want to explore other opportunities:

You're welcome to apply for any open position in the new Revenue Cycle organization or across the Johns Hopkins enterprise. You can apply for multiple roles — we encourage you to explore options that match your interests and qualifications.

2. Will I have to interview for a position?

It depends on your role:

Roles requiring a competitive application and interview process:

- All director and assistant director positions
- All manager and supervisor positions
- Billing and follow-up roles

- Coding educator roles and clinical denial specialists (coding positions)

These positions will go through a competitive interview process where candidates are evaluated based on background, experience, and skills.

Roles being mapped (via administrative transfer):

- coding
- core cash posting
- core refunds
- financial clearance
- performance improvement (non-manager roles)
- core operations
- training and administrative support roles

For these positions, if your current role maps to the new organization, you'll submit an application but won't need to interview. This is simply to formalize your transition.

Important Note About Interviews:

The interview process is designed to match current team members with the roles that best fit their skills and experience within the new organization structure. This is about finding the right fit for everyone during the transition — not about competing against external candidates.

3. When and how do I apply?

Application deadlines by role type:

You'll receive a list of openings with links to the JHHS application system in SuccessFactors. Submit your application by the dates below:

- June 12: All administrative transfers and management positions
- June 19: Billing and AR follow-up

After you apply:

- Competitive recruitments: You'll be contacted to schedule interviews. If selected, you'll receive a formal offer letter.
- Administrative transfers: You'll be contacted for a placement meeting and then receive an offer letter.

All offer letters must be signed and returned electronically within three business days. Once accepted, our pre-boarding team will reach out with next steps.

4. Will internal candidates be prioritized over external applicants?

This is an internal process. We'll only hire outside if we have positions that are not filled.

5. What resources are available for assistance with resume preparation and career navigation?

Shekeitha L. Jeffries, life design consultant with the Center for Staff Life Design, will be offering resume-writing sessions and career support group drop-in sessions to support you with preparing resumes and applications, and providing guidance on career documents and next professional steps.

The schedule for these sessions will be:

|---------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------|
| Resume Writing 101                    | June 9 at 2 p.m. and June 15 at 10 a.m. |

| Career Support Group Drop-In Sessions | June 11 at 2 p.m. and June 16 at 1 p.m. |

6. Will I have to relocate for this new position?

No, you will not be required to relocate.

7. What are the expectations for the work environment regarding in-person, hybrid or remote work?

Work environment expectations will be consistent with your current role, or will be clearly communicated if changes are needed. Details will be provided during the transition process.

8. Will there be opportunities for growth and advancement?

Absolutely. We're committed to helping you build your career within the new Revenue Cycle organization. Here's how we'll support your growth:

- Clear paths forward. You'll be able to see what it takes to move up — the skills you need, the experience that matters and what strong performance looks like at each level.
- Leadership support. If you're interested in moving into supervisory or management roles, we'll offer development programs and coaching to help you get there.
- Hands-on learning. You'll have chances to stretch yourself through special projects—like process improvements, system optimization work, or cross-functional teams—that help you gain new skills and get noticed.

- Training and credentials. We'll support formal training and certifications in areas like revenue cycle finance, analytics, compliance and operational excellence.
- Ongoing conversations. Your manager will work with you regularly to set goals, track your progress, and map out your next steps through personalized development plans.
- Mentorship and connections. We'll help you connect with senior colleagues and leaders who can offer guidance, advice and advocacy for your career.
- First look at new roles. When positions open up, current employees will get priority consideration — so you'll have the inside track on new opportunities.

Bottom line: We want to help you grow your skills, take on more responsibility and advance your career right here.

Compensation, Payroll and Benefits

Important!

The employee administrative transfer guidelines between The Johns Hopkins University and Johns Hopkins Health System — which are two distinct organizations — have been expanded to provide more flexibility and continuity for employees as they grow their careers at Johns Hopkins. The guidelines cover benefits eligibility, conditions of the transfer, service dates and more.

1. How will this affect my salary?

Each position is compensated at competitive fair market value based on current market rates. Any salary changes depend on the level of the position you move into, and will be discussed with you during the transition process. If you're being transferred to an administrative role, you will be kept whole — meaning your salary will not decrease.

2. What payroll changes should I expect?

Once your employer transitions from SOM to JHHS, you'll notice a few changes to how you get paid:

- Your paychecks will come from your new employer. If you still receive paper checks, they'll be mailed from the new location, which could take a bit longer.

That's why we encourage you to sign up for direct deposit — it's faster and more reliable.

- You'll be using a new payroll system called JHWorks. Don't worry, it's straightforward once you get used to it.
- Please double-check your first paycheck. We know it's easy to overlook, but it's important to make sure everything is correct — better to catch any issues early on.
- You'll need to fill out new tax forms. This includes federal and state forms, so you'll want to set aside a few minutes to complete those.

If you have any questions or run into any hiccups along the way, don't hesitate to reach out!

3. How will my benefits be affected?

Your benefits will transition to your new employer's plan, which means there may be some changes to things like health insurance, life and disability coverage, and your 403(b) retirement plan. We know this can feel like a lot, but we'll share details as soon as everything is finalized. In the meantime, you can check out the benefits information at jhhsbenefits.com (for JHHS) or your new employer's benefits portal.

Here's what you need to know:

- Health insurance enrollment: You'll have up to 30 days from your hire date to submit your health insurance enrollment. Your coverage will start on the first day of the month after your hire date.
- Your service time counts! Good news — we're recognizing all your continuous years of service with Johns Hopkins when calculating your benefits. This includes things like PTO accruals, retirement vesting, the 403(b) employer match, FMLA, Paid Parental Leave, and eligibility for dependent tuition benefits. If you've had a break in service of less than a year, that time still counts. However, if the break was longer than a year, we won't be able to credit that prior service (subject to plan terms and conditions).
- Unused vacation payout: JHU will pay out any unused, accrued vacation or PTO you have according to their policies — 100% of your unused vacation will be paid out when the transfer happens. Your accrual rates for vacation or PTO at your new organization will be based on your employment date with JHU.

4. Will I have to attend orientation again?

Yes, you will need to attend New-Hire Orientation at JHHS. We know you've been through this before, but it's important so you can get up to speed on the benefits, policies and compliance requirements specific to your new employer.

5. Will I have a probationary period?

Yes, all employees will have a 90-day probationary period as part of the administrative transfer process. This is a standard organizational requirement, even though your years of service with Johns Hopkins are being recognized for benefits purposes.

6. Who should I contact if I am interested in moving forward with retirement?

The JHU Benefits Office will host a retirement information session on June 16 at 11 a.m. Follow-up options to meet one-on-one with a benefits specialist will also be available to you. Retirement planning resources are available at hr.jhu.edu/benefits-worklife/retirement.

Training and Support

1. Will there be training provided for new responsibilities or systems?

Absolutely. We will provide training and resources to help everyone succeed in their roles, whether that's learning new processes and systems or taking on different responsibilities. No one will be expected to navigate these changes without support.

2. Will there be team-building opportunities after implementation to support the new teams?

Yes. In addition to role and system training, we will offer team-building opportunities after the transition is implemented to help teams gel, build trust and work effectively together. These activities will be designed to reinforce collaboration, clarify team norms and support ongoing development as teams settle into their new ways of working.

3. How will I be supported during this transition?

We recognize that it takes time to process this information, and we're here to support you every step of the way. Don't hesitate to reach out anytime if you'd like to discuss this further.

We will communicate early and clearly about any changes, with training and support to set you up for success. Weekly office hours by role will be available to ask operational questions. Additionally, we will host stakeholder engagement sessions, which are an opportunity for you to provide feedback on the transition to our change management coordinators.
